AUGUST 12TH

Michael Joseph McGivney was born on Aug. 12, 1852 in Connecticut. the first child of Irish immigrant parents. His parents went on to have 12 other children, half of whom died either as young children or infants due to their harsh living conditions. Michael left school at age 13 to work alongside his father and help support the family, but at age 16 he decided to enter the seminary. He was called home to help work to support his family once more due to the death of his father. Michael eventually returned to his studies and was ordained into the diocese of Hartford, CT in 1877. Fr. McGivney's first assignment was to St. Mary's Parish in New Haven. While there, he quickly became very active in the community. He even volunteered to foster a child whose father had passed away, leaving the boy's family in poverty and unable to care for him. It was during this time that McGivney envisioned the need for a Catholic mutual aid society. His intention was to create an institution where Catholic men could provide financial security to families in need who had lost their primary breadwinner. Blessed Fr. Michael McGivney, together with men from his church founded what is now the world's largest Catholic fraternal service organization—the Knights of Columbus. The order, whose founding principles were charity, unity, fraternity, and patriotism, grew rapidly.
