

From the desk of Father Joe

Those of you who regularly read the column on the back of the bulletin probably noticed that the version of Bishop Johnston's letter which we published last week was slightly different than the letter I read from the pulpit. The blame lies entirely with me. Though we printed the correct edition of the letter in the bulletin, I mistakenly printed and read an earlier version at Mass last weekend. If you have not already read the letter, I would encourage you to do so. You can find the bishop's letter on-line at www.kcsjatholic.org/2018/08/lord-save-us/.

I am writing my column on Wednesday morning, August 29. Though I am on vacation, a priest is not to be excused from his regular prayer life, including the Liturgy of the Hours and the celebration of Mass – two formal ways by which the priest fulfills his obligation to pray daily for the flock entrusted to him, and to be united with Jesus in an intimate way. Today (Wednesday) is the feast of the Beheading of St. John the Baptist. You will recall that Jesus' cousin, John the Baptist, first acknowledged His Divine Presence when they were both infants in the wombs of their respective mothers (Luke 1:41). During his public preaching, John gave example to all who would follow Christ whom he proclaimed, saying about Jesus, "He must increase, I must decrease" (John 3:30). Finally, John was arrested by King Herod because he publicly denounced Herod's (very public) adultery with his sister-in-law, Herodias (Mark 6:17-29). John would not remain silent in the face of evil, even if such evil was accepted by the culture, or committed by a man of great power. Sadly, we in the Church have come to learn of deplorable actions which are both serious crimes and grave sins committed by men who should have been emulating John the Baptist, but instead used their position as priests – even bishops and cardinals – to cloak their vices and predilections. It is small wonder that these same men, who were compromised personally first, also refused to publicly preach on moral matters related to marriage and human sexuality.

Over twenty years ago, while using the fledgling internet to research vocations information and programs of priestly formation, I remember coming across a few sordid tales about such behavior. Based on my experience of the Church to that point, I was quick to dismiss these unbelievable stories as "anti-Catholic quackery". Two years before I was ordained, a combination earthquake, avalanche, tsunami, erupted which blew the lid off decades of sexual abuse on the part of priests. It was stomach-churning then, and it remains every bit as distressing to this day. However, we were assured that the Bishops of the United States were honorable and responsible men and that they would take care of it. Little did we know that one of the most public spokesmen for this effort, Theodore McCarrick, had an entire beach house full of his own sexual skeletons. Now information has come out that, despite multiple attempts to pass information regarding this man up the chain of command, he continued to rise through the ranks of the hierarchy and continued to wield significant influence in the Church throughout the world all the way up until he was stripped of his Cardinal's red hat last month. I pray that a true investigation will bring to justice all who covered up for McCarrick and result in a purge which will bring some healing to the wounds of the Church, and begin to restore our trust in the hierarchy.

As I have said on several occasions, I wonder why anybody remains. Jesus Christ is still the only answer anybody can give for staying in the Church. Perhaps it is cold comfort, but even our Lord chose Judas (whom He knew would betray Him) as one of the twelve. Perhaps he did this to strengthen his little flock so that we would always be mindful of the true nature of the Church, the Mystical Body of Christ. Our Lady of Victory, Pray for us, St. Michael the Archangel, Defend us in battle!

O God, you asked St. Joseph to accept your will that his wife-to-be would have a Son.

St. Joseph accepted your will and worked with Jesus as his father and teacher.

We seek your blessing upon all the work of our hands, and we dedicate our work to your greater glory.

We ask your blessing upon all workers, especially those who work to make our lives easier and more enjoyable.

We ask all this through the intercession of St. Joseph, patron saint of workers, in the name of Jesus your Son, in the unity of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

St. Joseph the Worker, pray for us.
